Ventura County General Plan Goal 1.5.1:

Preserve and protect significant biological resources in Ventura County from incompatible land uses and development. Significant biological resources include endangered, threatened or rare species and habitats, wetland habitats, coastal habitats, wildlife migration corridors, and locally important species/communities.

Piru Area Plan

Protect the Piru Creek wildlife migration corridor between the Los Padres National Forest on the north and the Santa Clara River and Oak Ridge Big Mountain habitat on the south.

December 1, 2010

Ventura County Initial Study Assessment Guidelines

A significant impact to a migration corridor would result if a project would substantially interfere with the use of said area by fish or wildlife. This could occur through elimination of native vegetation, erection of physical barriers or intimidation of fish or wildlife via introduction of noise, light, development or increased human presence.
